Nymphomania in cattle is a behavioral condition driven by Cystic Ovarian Disease (COD). Affected cows exhibit intense, continuous, or excessively frequent heat behaviors. They frequently ride other cows, exhibit aggressive bull-like behavior, and may develop structural physical changes like an elevated tail head (sterility hump).